Spanning both parts of Washington and Oregon, with nearly 3,000 acres of planted vineyards, the Walla Walla Valley is real wine country, offering the most immersive experience of internationally acclaimed wines in the Pacific Northwest.

For over four decades, Walla Walla Valley winemakers have been working together to perfect their craft and build the region as a whole. You will often find these winemakers in their tasting rooms pouring, sharing, and answering questions. Because for them this isn't just business, it's an invitation to improve, an opportunity to create and a calling to never stop trying something new.

Restaurateurs, hoteliers, and entrepreneurs also feel drawn to this place beneath the Blue Mountains to practice their passions. Maybe there's something in the water, there's obviously something in the earth.

So, come as you are. We hope you use this guide to discover new and established wineries alike, to seek out new varietals and winemaking techniques. Before your journey, follow #WallaWallaWine to get to know us and start planning your trip. Remember to leave room for suggestions once you get here. We guarantee you will fall in love, whether it is the wine, the food, the views, or the small-town charm-

THERE'S A PLACE FOR YOU HERE.

Founded in 1984, the Walla Walla Valley became Washington's second American Viticultural Area (AVA). Impacted by prehistoric volcanic history and the cataclysmic glacial Missoula Floods, the Walla Walla Valley has a specific set of traits – elevation, soil and climate – all factors that influence a grape's flavor and the resulting wine's color, aroma and structure. Our wines are a truly original experience.

HELLO!

MEET OUR 6 WALLA WALLA VALLEY WINE DISTRICTS

The Walla Walla Valley is roughly divided into six wine districts, all easily drivable between each other. We suggest you visit all six districts, as they each have something unique to offer.

WESTSIDE

If you approach from the West, you'll pass right through the heart of this district, where a warm welcome to the Valley awaits from wineries that helped shape the region and those shaping its future.

DOWNTOWN

Walla Walla boasts over 40 wine tasting rooms within walking distance of award-winning restaurants and accommodations, fantastic shopping and a charming historic Main Street.

AIRPORT

Next to the Walla Walla Airport, you'll find a truly unique experience. More than a dozen wineries have set up tasting rooms inside old WWII-era mess halls, hangar buildings and firehouses.

EASTSIDE

On the Eastside of the Valley, visitors will find numerous award-winning wineries along with the picturesque Mill Creek growing area.

SOUTHSIDE

The bulk of the vineyards are located on the Southside of town, so these wineries pair spectacular views of the Walla Walla Valley with their highly acclaimed wines.

OREGON

Keep heading South, and you'll be across the Oregon border before you know it. Don't miss the opportunity to visit The Rocks District of Milton-Freewater AVA nested in the Walla Walla Valley.

The Vineyards of the Walla Walla Valley

There are nearly 3,000 acres of planted vineyards in the Walla Walla Valley American Viticultural Area (AVA), which spans Southeastern Washington and Northeastern Oregon.

The top five planted varieties are Cabernet Sauvignon (36%), Syrah (18%), Merlot (16%), Cabernet Franc (7%) and Malbec (4%). Within the Walla Walla Valley AVA lies The Rocks District of Milton-Freewater AVA, which was approved in early 2015. The distinguishing feature of The Rocks District is its soil, which consists primarily of dark-colored basalt cobblestones; Syrah is the most widely planted grape (40%) and Cabernet Sauvignon is second (32%). Vineyards in the Walla Walla Valley will continue to expand, further positioning it as one of the top growing regions in the world.

WHAT WE LOVE!

Innovation abounds in the Airport Wine District. Here you'll find the Winery Incubator Program that hosts 5 winery start-ups and other inventive winery, brewery & distillery teams. Walla Walla Valley sunsets are legendary and they rarely disappoint in the Airport Wine District, and of course, they pair perfectly with views of the Blue Mountains.

WHAT WE LOVE!

43% of the grapes planted in the Walla Walla Valley are in Oregon, where you can take in dramatic views of grapevines while sipping wine. More tasting rooms are popping up in The Rocks District of Milton-Freewater, a nested AVA of the Walla Walla Valley with soil made up entirely of cobblestones formed by an ancient river.
